

CBTA WINTER SOCIAL

February 6, 2010

Enjoy a relaxing evening at Kent Denver School, 4000 E Quincy, Englewood. Join us as we spend an evening with Bryan Maltais sharing his images of Colorado landscape, Wildlife, Wildflowers and Travel photography from around the world. Bryan writes:

"It was my dream to live in Colorado for as long as I've known what mountains are. I grew up in New Jersey, Germany and Missouri. I spent my childhood wandering through wild places in search of strange creatures, and later in life going on epic journeys through great western expanses. I've been a photographer throughout my adult life, and spend a great deal of time in the back country, and on the road in search of wild places and things. I hope to increase peoples' awareness and appreciation of nature's wild places."

Bryan Maltais specializes in photos of the Rocky Mountains, including Maroon Bells, Crested Butte, the Dallas Divide, the San Juan Mountains, Hanging Lake, Rocky Mountain National Park and much more. His web site is: <http://www.wildernessshots.com>

Come to the Colorado Biology Teachers' Association Winter Social on Saturday, February 6 at 6 pm. Kent Denver School is between Belleview and Hampden, East of University. We will enjoy a superb buffet including basil stuffed chicken, grilled salmon, roasted vegetables, etc., something for everyone. A "serve yourself" beverage bar, including beer and wine, will be available. After dinner sit back and enjoy an exceptional evening as Bryan Maltais takes us on his extraordinary photographic nature tour.

If you are a member of the CBTA Board please plan to arrive at 5:00 pm for a Board Meeting.
